BDA3 Notes

Rob Hayward*

December 8, 2013

Introduction

Estimands are unobserved quantities for which statistical inferences are made. There are two types of estimands: potentially observable quantities (future realisations or outcomes under treatment); unobservable quantities (such as coefficients on a regression).

---
*University of Brighton Business School, Lewes Road, Brighton, BN2 4AT; Telephone 01273 642586. rh49@brighton.ac.uk